Capt. William Small and his wife went to St. Michael's Cemetery this morning with the body of his two old piece who was Elizabeth Petersen. The baby is to be buried in the same grave with its murdered

When Capt. Small comes back from the cemetery he is going to consult a lawyer and proceed immediately with his case against the Randall's Island his case against the Randali's Island doctors, whom he charges with extreme cruelty and with causing the death of his sister's baby.

Capt. Small says he has some money, and he proposes to spend it in procuring justice. He is very much broken up over the death of the child, following, as it does, closely upon the heels of the tragedy in which his unfortunate sister lost her life.

In speaking of Dr. O'Hare's report that the death of the babe was caused by pneumonia, Small said he had never heard that pneumonia could fracture a skuil.

Ling Drill and his wife lived in the same apariments with the Wings. He is a sportly fellow and won't work. On the fight in question he asked for money from his wife, who also is a white woman, and when she refused he drew a knife and sail he'd kill her.

Mrs. Wing interfered, and he declared he'd stab her. The neighbors interfered,

Frank But'er, thirty-seven years old, a produce dealer in Harlem Market, was held in $1,000 ball in Harlem Police Court this morning on a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Alexander Clarke, of 255 Eighth avenue.

On Dec. 3 James Hughes, of 255 West Thirty-fifth street, and the complainant, bought $500 worth of potatoes from Butler. Each paid $500. The next day hughes went to Butler and rescinded the order, getting back all the money but $25. A few days later Hughes was arrested upon Butler's complaint, charging him with grand larceny.

Since then Clarke has been trying to get the money on the potatoes from Butler, and caused the latter's arrest.

five days, have extracted eleven feet of gang of thieves on Park Row near Pearl cable car this morning and sat down lead wire from the right arm of James Scanlan, a machinist, of 279 Avenue A.

Scanlan was working at a wire machine at 52 East Nineteenth street on Dec. 22 when he heard something snap and felt a violent pain in his arm. The pain became so intense that an ambulance was sent for and Scanlan was brought to Bellevue Hospital.

On examination there was a small puncture on the wrist, which, on being probed, was found to contain a piece of lead wire. Doctors Hart and Watts opened the arm and discovered that no less than eleven feet of wire was colled tightly round Scanlan's arm above the elbow.

The wire was extracted in small pieces. The wire was extracted in small pieces, and when measured it reached the length stated. Scanlan is rapidly recovering, and the injury to his arm will not be of a permanent nature.

The is unable to account for the extraordinary accident, and was unaware that the wire was embedded in his arm until its discovery by the doctors.
